

BAVARIAN COUP CRUSHED; LUDENDORFF RELEASED

NEWARK MAN IS KILLED BY TWO MEN SATURDAY

Mid-Be Robbers Attack
Two in Restaurant Early
Saturday

Newark, O., Nov. 10.—W. R. Foster, assistant outside foreman of the O. shops here, was shot and killed by a masked robber at 2:40 morning in the W. R. Scott restaurant in South Morris street, and a B. and O. round house, Smith had gone to eat lunch. of drugs after the proprietor and was a master had entered the restaurant. Two masked men appeared at recently front door and without uttering a word they opened fire, but the shots had no effect. Foster grabbed the larger and older man and threw him on the floor, and the smaller masked man placed a .32 calibre revolver close to Foster's head and pulled the trigger, the bullet going through the top of his head, killing him instantly. The murderer and his pal then escaped in the darkness without robbing the place, as is believed was their original intention. Foster came to this city from his former home in Lockland, a suburb of Cincinnati, last December. His wife and two small children are in Lockland now and have been notified of his death. The father of the deceased who is in Delaware, O., has also been notified.

MRS. STOKES WINS CASE; CHARGES ARE IGNORED BY JURY

New York, Nov. 10.—The honor of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes has been vindicated after a five-year battle. A jury of her peers said "No" to the charges of infidelity brought against her millionaire husband. The case was out an hour and seven minutes. As the issues in the case had been reduced to the one count of adultery, the defendant had been guilty of misconduct with Edgar T. Wallace in his apartment here, the jury's negative answer to that part of the interrogatory was the signal of defeat for the plaintiff. The jury took only one ballot.

Though the charges of misconduct against Mrs. Stokes have been disposed of, the courts are not yet through with the Stokes case. Isadore Shapiro of counsel for Mrs. Stokes announced that the separation action started by Mrs. Stokes against her husband was on the calendar in the special term of the supreme court for next Monday.

As she was preparing to leave the courtroom, Mrs. Stokes said that none but a mother's heart could know her joy and happiness. "A jury of American men," she said, "have looked into my heart and vindicated me of the charges brought against me by the man who in my trusting girlhood I believed would love and cherish me through life. But it is not for myself I cared. My happiness is for my children."

CHICAGO ELECTS FIRST WOMAN JUDGE

Miss Mary Bartheleme

Miss Mary Bartheleme, whose 25 years of public service in Chicago have given her a national name, is Chicago's first woman Judge-elect, winning by 15,000 majority over Dennis J. Nor-moyle, Democratic candidate. Miss Bartheleme, a graduate of Northwestern University Law School, was admitted to the bar in 1894. From 1897 to 1917 she was Public Guardian. Then she was appointed to the Juvenile Court bench.

DIVERGENCE IN VIEWS OF GOLD STORES IN GERMANY EVIDENT

Paris, Nov. 10.—The French foreign office today issued a communique indicating there existed a wide divergence of opinion between Paris and Washington regarding the German gold stores in foreign countries.

The foreign office holds it is preferable that there be no international conference of reparations experts than that the meeting should open with the inevitable danger that it would break up without result, after starting to work, "because France is upholding the inviolability of the Versailles treaty and is unable to agree to extension of the committee's scope."

The communique said in part: "Examination of Germany's capacity for reparations payments and the program of payments over a period of years would be futile unless Germany's foreign resources are first evaluated.

The communique said France was willing to aid any international inquiry of the reparations problem to the extent of her expressed ability. The communication quoted from a speech by President Willsoth of the international chamber of commerce convention in Rome last March backing up the French viewpoint.

Armistice Day Observed With Special Exercises

Armistice Day will be celebrated in Xenia Saturday and Sunday with special exercises starting Saturday evening at seven o'clock when Benson V. Hough, U. S. District attorney at Cincinnati, will deliver an address at Cox Memorial Field, under the auspices of Joseph Foody Post, No. 95 American Legion.

Judge Hough will be introduced by C. L. Darlington, former local post and Ohio commander who in turn will be introduced by Dr. B. R. McClellan, post commander. An elaborate fireworks display will follow the patriotic address.

Greene County churches will give special emphasis to the spiritual significance of Armistice Day and to the Red Cross Sunday, during the regular services. In addition the Federal Council of Churches has asked every minister throughout the United States to point out the peace powers of the World Court, of which the late President Harding spoke so encouragingly, "the court of all the nations, a sort of supreme court of the world."

The churches in the county in general will give emphasis to one or all of these themes. The Rev. C. P. Proud of the Second United Presbyterian Church, will preach on "The Chal-

BREWERIES IN SEVERAL STATES TO BE SEIZED

Federal Prohibition Officials to Follow Up Activities In Pennsylvania With Similar Moves In New Jersey, Ohio, and New York

Washington, Nov. 10.—Federal prohibition officials will quickly follow-up the seizures of a large number of Pennsylvania breweries with seizures of breweries in New Jersey, Ohio, New York and probably a few other states, it was learned today.

All of the breweries listed for service have been operating under non-beverage permits and are alleged to have manufactured and sold high proof beer. Officials of the Treasury's prohibition unit, co-operating with officials of the department will seek to "padlock" between 40 and 50 breweries in their present drive against illicit beer.

As soon as orders are obtained from the courts closing the Pennsylvania breweries already seized, federal officials then will extend their campaign to other states in their support to make the complete roundup of alleged violators of the liquor law.

Officials are proceeding under internal revenue laws which are held to be far more effective in curbing the breweries, than the process of injunction.

Prohibition officials today planned their next attack upon New Jersey breweries. The New Jersey liquor situation has been regarded by officials as one which has been most troublesome. In New Jersey and other states yet to be invaded with the "padlock" Chief Yellowley, of the force of general prohibition agents has made a thorough investigation. This has extended over several weeks. The proof gathered by Yellowley is held by legal experts of the prohibition unit to be sufficient to close the largest breweries of the country for a period of one year at least.

LYDD GEORGE TO FIGHT BALDWIN'S PROTECTIVE PLAN

The former premier declared he was in fighting trim and forthwith announced that he would fight Premier Baldwin's protectionist policy and come out as a protagonist of free trade. He also made the important statement that he would serve under Asquith if the Liberals are returned to power at the next election.

Lloyd George declared himself immensely struck by the absence of military posts along the Canadian border, "a marvelous object lesson in what two nations can do if they allow good feeling, neighborliness and common sense to dominate their relations instead of anger, suspicion, envy, hatred and revenge." "That is what the British empire and the United States are going to teach the world," he said. "The resources of the two great commonwealths are infinite." He described America as a "great country of infinite abundance, with a virile, determined, resourceful population of great hearted people, worthy to occupy the land that yields more freely to the hand of man than any other country in the world."

GREAT BRITAIN FACES TASK OF BRINGING PEACE

Up to That Nation to Save
Reparations Conference
From Doom

Washington, Nov. 10.—Unless Great Britain can blow the breath of life into a new effort at solving the reparations problem, it appeared today that this rancorous controversy will continue to bedevil the world and retard Europe's economic and financial recovery.

It is now up to Great Britain and the other Allies, Italy and Belgium. The most ambitious attempt at finding a solution for the problem that has been made since the treaty of Versailles was signed, has, for the moment, resulted in failure, despite the initiative and aid proffered by the United States.

The future course of the United States was considered today to be uncertain. Whether having been rebuffed by France, this government will again retire to its shell of aloofness from the whole controversy or whether it will participate in a renewed effort at solving the problem without the aid of the French government, remains to be seen. Secretary of State Hughes and President Coolidge were non-committal on this subject today.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The United States rejected the French restriction limiting the proposed Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's ability to pay during the next six years.

The American government adheres to its original position that any inquiry involving American participation must be broad and inclusive.

These declarations of the American stand were made in President Coolidge's behalf at the white house after the cabinet meeting. They left no room for doubt.

The official declaration at the state department was outlined as follows:

The secretary of state has informed the French ambassador that in the opinion of our government the limitations proposed by France would frustrate the purposes of the suggested inquiry by an economic conference. Any inquiry shackled by the restrictions demanded by Premier Poincare, the president feels, would be useless and futile. There would be no use calling together the experts of four or five nations to determine Germany's present capacity to pay. That question, in the president's opinion, should be answered by any ordinary auditor.

With reference to the Poincare restriction that the experts should not deal with Germany's capacity beyond 1930, the spokesman explained that there is no reason to expect that, within such a short time, Germany could re-establish industrial and productive activity.

The president's view was summarized officially in substance as follows: Germany could hardly begin in such a short time to meet reparations to such an extent that it would be any use of inquiring into her capacity.

The white house declaration finally rejecting the Poincare terms was made after strenuous efforts to prevent the formal burial of the Hughes-Curzon plan for American participation in the reparations controversy.

The collapse of the Hughes-Curzon scheme, forecast exclusively in these dispatches ten days ago, had been confirmed in Washington with reluctance, and there was a tragic interest in the result.

SCHWAB EXPLAINS LOANS TO WOMAN

Mrs. Myrtle D. Hayes
Charles M. Schwab

For 20 years Charles M. Schwab, steel master and multi-millionaire made loans to Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes, who is now under indictment in New York charged with forging his name to notes which she was using to finance the erection of a $5,000,000 apartment hotel in Boston. He made the loans he swore in bankruptcy proceedings in New York, because in 1902 he had advanced her $2000 and he feared that if he should stop there would be some publicity regarding his past loan to her which would result in an erroneous construction being placed upon his previous association with her.

It was reported that former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm had crossed the frontier into Germany, passing through Berlin this morning on his way to his Silesian estate at Oels, but this was officially denied. The "putsch" originating in a Munich beer cellar cost the Republic forces not more than half a dozen killed, "probably not that many" and a dozen wounded. The rebel casualties have not been determined.

Hitler, the man who ensnared Ludendorff into the madcap adventures is a fugitive from justice. German Republican officials declared today that the movement to restore the monarchy in Germany has been virtually crushed by the defeat of the Bavarian nationalists by loyal Reichswehr troops along the "Bavarian front."

Loyal reichswehr forces and the defection of Dictator Von Kahr, who reasserted his authority following his declaration that he only assented to the Ludendorff-Hitler program at the point of a pistol, broke the back of the revolution.

A late dispatch from Munich states that when a one-hour ultimatum was sent to Hitler and Ludendorff, barricaded with a few loyal Hitler storm troops in the war ministry building, Ludendorff refused to fire on his former comrades or direct the fire. He came out and gave himself up to the commander of two battalions of reichswehr about to storm the building. The Hitler army of more than 4,000, supposedly ready to die for him, has melted away. The resistance of the army was not great, only a few taking up the defense of the building. The reichswehr and police had two dead and about 10 wounded, and there were seven or eight casualties on Hitler's side. Hitler, though wounded, is said to have made his escape.

Following the reassertion of authority by Dictator Von Kahr, he ordered the arrest of all followers of Hitler, and decreed that the "party" must be dissolved. All the government buildings are now in the hands of Von Kahr and the loyal reichswehr.

General Von Seeckt, who was made virtual military dictator for Germany by President Ebert, issued a proclamation to the reichswehr in which he said: "I have been entrusted with executive power and am conscious of my responsibility to the people. I know I can depend with rock-like confidence on the German army and navy. There is no strife between the north and south. I will put down any coup from whatever side it arises and I ask all classes of people to loyally support the reichswehr."

Not only Germany, but Austria and Hungary were to be the scenes of nationalist revolts planned by Hitler and Ludendorff. That has been revealed in documents confiscated at Budapest, where three alleged co-conspirators with Hitler and Ludendorff were arrested. One of these documents was a regular treaty between the fascists of Bavaria and Hungary, according to which the Bavarians were to furnish troops, especially officers, for a nationalist revolt in Hungary in the middle of November, in return for Hungarian grain for Bavaria.

Several members of the Hitler organization have been arrested at Budapest.

REPORT CROWN PRINCE AGAIN IN FATHERLAND

Leader Agrees Not to Take Part in Any Further
Agitations

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm crossed the frontier from Holland into Germany at Benheim, Hanover, during the night, accompanied by his personal adjutant, Major Mueldner Von Muelheim, according to authoritative information received here this afternoon.

A German police official met the pair and proceeded with them in a Breslau train via Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—General Erich Ludendorff, former quartermaster-general in the German army, who was taken prisoner when the Hitler uprising in Bavaria collapsed, was released today upon his word of honor that he would not take part in any further agitations against the government.

Ludendorff must hold himself at the disposal of the government pending any formal charge that may be made against him in the future.

BUSINESS SECTION
SEA OF FLAGS IN
DAY'S CELEBRATION

Xenia's business section was a sea of flags Saturday, in recognition of the fifth annual Armistice Day.

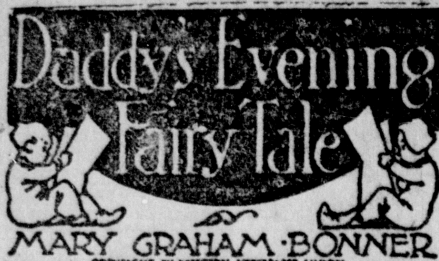

At eleven o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1918, fighting along the great battle front that had been thrown up between the Allies and the Boches, ceased.

In the return along the road leading away from war and toward peace and prosperity, the United States of America has probably progressed farther than any of the other participants of the conflict known as the World War.

Allied nations on two continents celebrate Armistice Day as the anniversary of the conclusion of the most disastrous warfare in which the world has ever been involved. Great cities and little hamlets are flinging their national colors to the breeze and arranging celebrations that bid fair in this country to make the day stand out equal in significance with Independence Day.

Ideal weather, Saturday greeted the scheduled peace day celebration here. Stores and business houses were open Saturday, preferring to give proper significance to the day, which this year falls on Sunday, on the following Monday. Public offices including the Court House and City Hall will be closed Monday in observance of the day, and churches and lodges will hold their program Sunday.

The appearance of the American Flag Saturday was believed to be the most general exhibition of the red, white and blue that has been evidenced here for some time, partly due to the request of the American Legion to so signify its Armistice Day celebration.

MR. AND MRS. WOLF

"I have looked for some time for a nice place, and I think I have found it now," said Mrs. Wolf.

"I looked at a good many. In fact, I almost set up housekeeping in several and cleaned the dens out, but I didn't like them finally. I thought I could get a nicer home."

"Ah, Mrs. Wolf," said Mr. Wolf, "this is beautiful. This is a perfect home. And how lovely this weather is."

"Dear Mr. Wolf, would any one imagine that the wild and dangerous and blood-thirsty wolf would talk about the weather," Mrs. Wolf chuckled.

"Ah, they don't know," said Mr. Wolf. "They do not know how we are when we are at home. We love each other so."

"We whisper all sorts of little things to each other, though to us they are not 'little things.' They're 'some things' of great importance."

"Yes, this home is perfect. Well, Mrs. Wolf, I had a dangerous time not long ago. I thought I was caught."

"Ah, don't tell me that," said Mrs. Wolf.

"But you need not worry now," said Mr. Wolf, "for you see that I am here, all safe and sound."

"Yes, yes," said Mrs. Wolf, "but I cannot bear to think that you have been exposed to danger."

"But you have escaped! Yes, you have escaped, and you will be more careful in the future?"

"I am careful," said Mr. Wolf, "but I will be even more careful. I had been hunting and having a little meal and was taking a nap away from the hunting ground—but not far enough away."

"For an old hunter came after me and almost would have had me."

"But the wind was in the right direction so I could get a whiff of the human being coming toward me."

"If it had not been for that wind I would not have been here now."

"Oh, Mr. Wolf, what a narrow escape. And how thankful I am it was an escape!"

"I wish I could give the wind a present to show my gratitude, but the wind isn't the kind of a creature or a thing to whom one can give a present."

"But I am grateful, oh, so grateful," Mrs. Wolf said.

"Yes," Mr. Wolf continued, "we want to be safe, for we only have each other."

At that, tears came in Mrs. Wolf's eyes.

"There, there," he said, "there will be other little wolves, and I am happy, for we have each other. That means everything, Mrs. Wolf."

"Oh yes, Mr. Wolf, that means everything, and dear mate, you are so good to me."

"How well I remember, too, when there were the dear little wolf babies—three darling babies they were last spring. And after they were born and I was so afraid that something would happen to them, you kept us supplied with food so that I did not have to leave them."

"But oh, Mr. Wolf, for the longest time I thought every time I came back to the den that somehow or other I would find my babies. Again and again I looked for them—after they had been killed and taken away."

"Oh dear, how sad it was. They were never there. And then we stood it for as long as we could, and now we have another den."

"Yes, and we have a fine hill from which we can see what is going on."

"And we will be happy, and there will be other little wolves," Mrs. Wolf said.

"But best of all, Mr. Wolf, there is my dear mate."

And then she laughed.

"How strangely our talk would sound to people. They do not know that wolves are different at home from when they see them."

"And after all I think it is better to be nice in the home than outside it. At any rate that is what you think, and it is what I think, for we are two devoted wolves."

"Two devoted wolves is what we are," said Mr. Wolf as he patted Mrs. Wolf on the shoulder and looked at her out of his eyes which now were very loving and affectionate.

TO PROBE OHIO COAL RATES

Washington, Nov. 10.—The interstate commerce commission broadened the scope of its sweeping coal rate investigation to include bituminous and semi-bituminous coal and coke from points in Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Pennsylvania to New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Dec. 4 was set as the date for a hearing.

PAYMASTER HOLD UP

Dayton, O., Nov. 10.—Two masked gunmen held up the paymaster of the Egly Manufacturing company and escaped with approximately $10,000. Leo Willis, the paymaster, was walking toward the plant with the money in a bag when a large touring car drew up to the curb and stopped. One of the holdup men got out of the car and jammed a revolver in Willis' ribs, took the money bag, climbed back into the car and fled.

EDUCATION BOARDS
NOT RESPONSIBLE

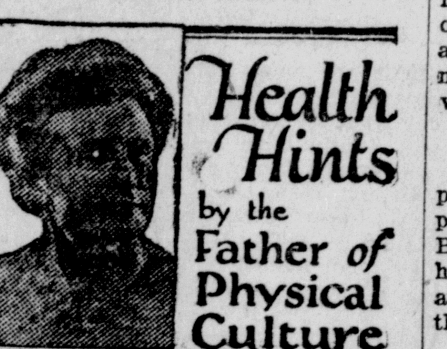

Columbus, Nov. 10.—Attorney General Crabbe holds that boards of education are not liable for damages for injuries resulting to school children from accidents caused by the negligence of drivers of school motor buses. It is also cited that boards of education are not authorized to carry liability insurance to protect the boards and school children even though the law compels school children to be transported to school under certain conditions. In the latter connection, the opinion directs attention to the passage of a law authorizing boards to take out liability insurance, and its subsequent veto by the governor.

COOLIDGE SEEKING
ADVICE ON PROGRAM

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Coolidge is asking the advice of all Republican members of the senate and of the Republican leaders in the house on the general legislation program he will recommend to congress when it is convened in December. The president's message, which is scheduled to be delivered Tuesday, Dec. 4, the day after the opening session, if the possible fight over organization in both houses does not result in a tieup, is awaited probably with more interest than any similar document since the war. In the stand Mr. Coolidge will be forced to take on pressing international and domestic issues, he may make or break himself so far as the presidential nomination is concerned. His attitude on these questions is expected to supply the issues that will bring a number of opponents for the nomination into the field.

U. S. POLICY AS TO
DEBTS UNCHANGED

Washington, Nov. 10.—The policy of the United States with reference to debts owed by foreign nations remains unchanged despite developments growing out of the Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay. This was made plain in behalf of President Coolidge at the white house. The president feels that congress has made clear the American policy by establishing the world war foreign debt commission and laying down the procedure to be followed by debtor nations in settling their obligations.

BERNARR MACFADDEN

I wish to emphasize the practice of relaxation as an element of health building. There are thousands of people who go about in their waking hours in a state of nervous tension and who even sleep with their hands tightly gripping the bed clothes as though something desperate would happen if they let go of themselves. This condition of tenseness involves a terrible waste of energy, and in some cases, if not overcome, is alone sufficient to prevent any material gain in strength and vitality.

The power to relax will give one greater efficiency and power in any endeavor or occupation, not merely because of the saving of energy that would otherwise be wasted, but because of the better control which one may thereby enjoy both over himself and the external affairs with which he has to deal. Well-seasoned athletes know and appreciate this keenly. It is an indispensable feature of good boxing, for in a contest one cannot afford to squander his strength through unnecessary tenseness or to have his muscles so tied up in this way that he cannot act instantaneously when an opening presents itself. If it is necessary for him to relax his stiffened and contracted muscles and then to contract them again in order to strike, he will be too late. The boxer who has not yet learned the lesson of relaxation is hopelessly handicapped.

And it is so in other matters, not merely in athletics, but in every phase of life. If you have the least tendency towards nervousness or excitability, or if you have not yet acquired the power to relax each and every part of the body absolutely at will, then you should immediately set about the study and practice of relaxation until you have secured such control over yourself. If it means nothing to you just now, there may come a time before long when it will mean everything to you. And it will help you to get control of your body from the standpoint of contracting the muscles and exerting your strength as well. Before long you will be able to relax utterly without assistance of these special movements.

First, while standing without tenseness, raise one arm at a time to the level of the head, and after a moment relax the muscles, letting it drop loose and limp to the side, where it should swing once or twice if it is properly relaxed.

Next walk slowly and carelessly across the floor with the entire upper body relaxed.

CREDIT FOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL
VICTORY IS GIVEN TO MRS. EMMA ZELL
WHO HAS BEEN CHOSEN TEAM'S MOTHER

Central High School football players, following their first victory of the season over McClain High at Greenfield Friday, were giving the credit to Mrs. Emma Zell, South Detroit street, grandmother of Allen Zell, crack left halfback on the team and who has been chosen "Mother" of the Central High School eleven.

Players give Mrs. Zell the credit because she arranged a dinner in their honor at Central High Thursday evening, which will go down in the school history as one of the most rousing and successful "pep" meetings that ever inspired a blue and white team to victory. Following the send off given the team, Captain Don Fuller and his cohorts said they "just couldn't lose."

Mrs. LeRoy Wolf, Mrs. Zell's daughter, who is domestic science teacher at Central High was the actual hostess of the affair, assisted by her mother. The tables were laid in the high school dining room in the form of an "X" and decorated with streamers of blue and white, the school colors. The football, decorated with the letters "X. H. S." in blue, surrounded a crystal pedestal, with the streamers leading from the ball to each player's plate.

Mrs. Zell, acting as toastmistress, told the players that the significance of the streamers and the ball was to impress each player to support the ball and carry it to the goal. Mrs. Zell re-told the story of the man and his seven sons and the bundle of sticks, applying it to the football team. In a bundle tied with blue and white streamers and a red silk cord, were 12 sticks representing the team and coach. Coach Earl Burgner attempted to break the bundle of sticks without success and then was shown how easy they cracked one by one. Mrs. Zell said the cord that bound the sticks represented unity and cooperation between players and coach and that as long as they stood together on the gridiron, they could not fall of victory.

Dr. Wilbur C. Zell, Central High star of 20 years ago, was a guest at the banquet and told the players that his team of two decades ago was also in a losing slump like the present team, but that co-ordination of team play finally turned the season from disaster into success. Talks were given by Coach Burgner, Superintendent of Schools, C. A. Waltz and Business Manager John R. Beaham along the same lines. William Horner, center on the eleven, responded with a lively toast in which he spoke of the Miss Dorothy Fuller, twin sister of Captain Don Fuller, in her honor. Captain Fuller, in her turn, spoke of the team on the field. Captain Fuller toasted Superintendent Waltz and Allen Zell also talked briefly, each giving good talks that were inspiring. A delicious dinner was served by Mrs. Wolf, preceding the speaking program.

Captain Fuller asked "Mother" Zell for instructions before leaving for Greenfield Friday. He was told to "keep sweet and play ball." Central High won the game, its first of the season, 13 to 0.

QUART OF WATER
CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

HOLD MEETING OF FRESHMAN P. T. A. AT HIGH SCHOOL

The freshman class of Central High School was represented by 42 mothers, at the class meeting sponsored by the High School Parent-Teacher Association at the school, Friday night.

Judge J. C. Marshall, of the Juvenile Court, addressed the mothers on "Delinquent Children." He declared he did not blame the child for his faults, and delinquency, but laid the responsibility on the parents. He deplored the fact that the Bible was not read sufficiently in the schools. At the close of his address Judge Marshall signified his intention of joining the Parent-Teacher Association.

C. A. Waltz, superintendent of the city public schools, declared that in his eighteen years' experience of teaching he was convinced that there are no naturally bad boys, but that they are made so by environment.

Some pupils appeared in a musical program, before the guests, in the auditorium later. Marjorie Street, and Julian Doggett gave a piano and violin duet, followed by a piano solo by Elizabeth Alexander, and a piano duet by Emma Lemar, and Imogene Dean. Mrs. D. D. Jones gave a reading. The first membership in the 1923 Red Cross Roll Call was taken out at the Red Cross office at the Court House by Harry M. Lantz, of Beaver Creek Township, Friday.

Reports from the various townships show an increase of interest, according to officials. This is noted from Yellow Springs where a former Xenian, David Pittz, is chairman and has a Red Cross window display, using cranberries for the cross. He is offering a prize to the person who guesses the number of berries in the design.

The Welfare Association of Bellbrook presented the school with a Red Cross First Aid Box Thursday.

PREPARE RECEIPTS OF TAX COLLECTION AT LOCAL OFFICE

With the tax books in several districts held up pending the outcome of Tuesday's election, employees in the office of County Treasurer F. A. Jackson are now working feverishly to prepare tax receipts for the collection rush anticipated soon.

Some taxpayers are already settling their semi-annual tax demands, it is said at the treasurer's office, but collection will not swing into full being until after receipts are completed in about two weeks, according to Treasurer Jackson.

Receipts for districts voting on additional levies were held up pending the election. Jefferson Twp., school district, Jefferson Twp., Bowersville Village, Jamestown school district, Jefferson Twp., school district and Jamestown Village voted on special issues which necessitated that tax receipts in those districts not be written until the outcome was determined by the election. Those tax books have now been received, the issue having passed only in Jefferson Twp., and the work of writing receipts for those books is now buying employees in the treasurer's office. The election changed the tax rates only in Jefferson Twp., for this collection period, where the $18 a thousand and rate will be subject to a .3 mill additional on the December collection. Issues voted in other districts will not be collected until next year. Tax rates in Xenia City will be $26.60 a reduction from $28.80, which was the rate per $1,000 valuation last year.

CROSS IS BURNED.

The cross that was burned in the neighborhood of the Central High School Friday night was burned it is said by the junior K. K. K. and the Greene County organization had nothing to do with it. It is claimed that the cross is burned when the organization reaches the 500 mark and had no other significance. The cross was 22 feet high and differed from the usual cross from the fact that it had two cross bars. A bomb was touched off before the cross was burned.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

Business is better in Texas proportionally than in any of the Southern States east of the Appalachian range, entirely due to the good cotton crop in the Lone Star State. So likewise, matters are more promising in Louisiana, comparatively, than in the cotton-raising Commonwealths to the North, not only because it suffered less loss from the boll weevil and bad weather, but also because it has sugar and rice as cash crops as well.

The corn and hog raising States of the Middle West are buying more freely than the western sections of the Great Plains States where the wheat crop was largely a failure. There is not so much difference in industrial life, for virtually every phase of manufacturing life has more capacity than it can employ, if there be excepted some of the staple commodities used in building and construction.

This is about the fashion in which the situation will stack up for the next six months for sudden changes in the business levels do not come so late in the year. Save in cotton fabrics, prices in most manufactured products are more likely to ease up than to show any tendency to advance for we are in that very normal state when there are more sellers than buyers.

The average man is well persuaded on that score and is not much impressed by pronouncements from high sources of coming prosperity because of increased demand. He is more of the belief that we are once more on the road to a better and juster relation of prices and of wages in the great divisions of economic and productive life and is quite content that it should be so, as the best thing that can happen to us.

SPEED FIRST?

At Mitchel Field two airmen, Lieutenant Alford Williams and Lieutenant Harold Brow, engaged in a nip-and-tuck struggle for speed supremacy, which resulted in a maintained rate of one flier of nearly 267 miles an hour, and a burst of speed on the part of the other man which attained 274 miles an hour for one lap. The pair of contestants have traveled faster than any one ever moved through space before them, and the imagination is quickened as one envisages what this means for the future.

Draw a circle round Philadelphia with 274 miles as the radius, and it means Boston or Buffalo or the Ohio line or the North Carolina boundary in an hour at Brow's rate of speed. If "stunt" flying meant only the spectacular maneuvers the onlookers witnessed at Mitchel Field, a holiday of spills and thrills, of "ohs" and "ahs" and still-locks the following day for jaded seekers after a sensation, one could let the nine days' wonder pass with a little comment. But the many are concerned in what the few are doing because it means that in time everyday passenger traffic will reap the benefit of the phenomenal feats now accomplished.

In the war men were taught every sort of gyration, because when attacked they had to be able to control the plane at any rate in any position. In peace time the paramount interest is in the air mails and to handle an increasing passenger traffic. If the planes can travel high and fast their operation at lesser levels and at lower speed is obviously feasible. It is reassuring to realize that the hair-raising "stunts" have in view an ultimate objective far more useful than to supply a fleeting sensation to a throng that cares for little else.—Public Ledger.

KEEPING A DIARY.

Keeping a diary, like a good many other things, is a matter of habit. At first it seems immensely difficult. You forget and the days slip by unrecorded. You have nothing to set down or you have too much. Many begin diaries but comparatively few persist with them.

Yet keeping a diary has great practical advantages. You do not appreciate how treacherous memory is till you compare it with actual written records. Some one says that you did or said so and so. You think that you did not. You turn to your diary and there are facts. Presence, absence, illness, health, even happiness or unhappiness, are often substantiated by a reference to diaries.

And there is the fascination of living your life over again. When you abound in youth and strength and everything is before you, you are apt to be comparatively little; but if a friend is from employers and spent the morning upon you the keeping of a diary and on booze and cabarets. Another case of flappers setting a bad example for their elders.

In most families coconut layer cake is not served frequently because the coconut filling is more expensive than most other kinds. But every good housekeeper knows how to make this delicious cake, and at least for great occasions it appears on the home table. For the sake of the inexperienced housekeeper I shall give this recipe in "just how" form:

A TWO-LAYER CAKE WITH COCONUT FILLING AND FROSTING: Cream together one cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter; add the beaten yolks of two eggs and one cup of sweet milk. Mix together two and one-half cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and one half teaspoon of salt and add this dry mixture to the first mixture. Fold in the stiffly-whipped whites of the two eggs and flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla. Turn this batter into two buttered layer-cake pans and bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven. Coconut Cream filling for a Two-Layer Cake: Heat three-quarters of a cup of sweet milk in a small saucepan. Now take one-fourth cup of extra sweet milk and mix into it four tablespoons of flour; mix till smooth, add this thickening to the hot milk, stirring for a few seconds, then add one well-beaten egg which has been mixed with six tablespoons of granulated sugar. When thick, stir in one cup of shredded coconut and let cook a minute or two longer then remove from fire and add one teaspoon of vanilla. This filling is just the right amount to put between two cake layers.

Coconut Icing: (The following recipe makes just enough icing for the top of one cake.) Beat one egg white stiff in a medium sized bowl, ready to have hot sirup poured into it. Make the sirup as follows: Mix together two tablespoons of boiling water and four tablespoons of granulated sugar in a small saucepan and let them boil with but stirring till a little will "thread" from a spoon when it is held high in the air and dripped back into the saucepan (for the sake of the inexperienced cook I shall describe this "thread" as an almost invisible cobweb like ending of the drop of sirup which has just left the end of the spoon.) When this stage is reached take the saucepan off the fire at once and pour the hot sirup into the stiffly whipped egg-white in the bowl; beat the mixture for one full minute, with an egg-beater of the wheel type, then add one half cup of shredded coconut. Spread at once on the top layer of the cake.

LEARN MORE AND MORE

It is possible to learn something every day that will help you to increase the desire within you for more knowledge.

After we have seen the delicate formations of a flower under the microscope, we take an added interest in all flowers, and our imagination is set to work picturing new beauties and wonders in all the various flowers and formations in nature.

When you read one book by a writer you are stimulated to read other books by him, if that first one helps and interests you.

Somewhere there seems to have been born in every healthy human being the hunger for something better, something that might increase the capacity for more knowledge.

Learn more and more. The more you learn, the better you are fortified to meet every emergency in life. The knowledge that you gain today, from some out of the way source, may not really come into its own for years—and you never know the value of this accumulation until the right opportunity for its use arrives.

I read the other day that "the higher the level of innate capacity, the more is it improved by education." It is privilege to discover something about that "innate capacity" of yours and you may do so by learning more and more.

A real thrill comes to one when, on opening up a new line of reading or in some form of healthful entertainment, or in extended travel, new things are discovered and the mind is aroused to its fullest vigor.

You learn more and more as you look for more, as you listen more and as you add and build up from the knowledge which you already have.

FOOTBALL

Tackling high, and tackling low,
Twelve years old and ready to go.
And his mother looks with a wistful eye
At the not far distant by-and-by,
The dawn of the dangerous morning when
He'll go to the field with older men.

And the mother says, in a mother's way:
"When he's older grown he will want to play,
And the game is rough and the players fall
And they never think of mothers at all;
They never think of our dread just then
And the fears that come when our boy are men."

What can I say and what can I do?
Time was I yearned for the scrimmage top;
Time was I longed with an ardent soul
To battle my way to a far-flung goal,
And I know I'd have joyed at a hurt back then
Just to take my place with the older men.

The scalper becomes expert at

BARBERS WILL MEET

WYOMING MERCHANTS

ON LOCAL GRIDIRON

Shades of former Central High School footballs will walk on the gridiron at Washington Park Sunday afternoon when the K.A.A. football team hopes to stage its postponed engagement with the Dayton Wyoming Merchants.

For while many and important independent piskin luminaries are carving this season under the banner of the barbers, former Central High School athletes are gradually assuming greater proportions in the lineup.
When the locals center out on the turf Sunday it will be found that Cowan, Purdom, Geger and McFadden, former high school pastimers have been supplemented by the addition of Bob Yeakley, Beals, and Ola Woolary. Cowan and Purdom are as sweet a pair of flankers as ever graced a blue and white gridiron combination while Beals is a tough nut at either guard or tackle.

Scribes have written reams of gushing copy about the abilities of Yeakley as a center when with the Miami University cup winners and Woolary was the bright light in the backfield of last year's eleven. Geger not only played good football with Central High last year but he sparkled brilliantly in his debut with the barbers.
In addition to these pastimers will be Frank Leheay, formerly of the Maroons and American Legion eleven,
Lucas, Roach, Foley, Heery, Davis,
Fudge and Cox.

The Merchants also boast a crack combination composed of Leflar and colony at the ends, Herman and Scoffield at the tackles, Lynch and Layton at the guards and Callahan at center while Hofengardner, Staley, Willowet and Balesh will perform in the backfield. The game will start at 2:15 o'clock.

The management of the local team announces that higher class combinations will follow the barbers here, including the Trotwood eleven, to be entertained Nov. 18, the Urbana Pi-

Lest We Forget

November 11, 1918

Think back. Remember that memorable day--just five years ago--when the sun came over the horizon with an unexplainable new brightness? The heavens cleared and all the world breathed a heavy sigh of relief. The war was over. Humanity had been saved. A new future loomed before us.

The tension of many long days of uncertainty had been loosened. Folks gave vent to their feelings. Smiles shone through the tears. Joy knew no bounds. VICTORY! Victory--well earned, indeed--was ours.

So, today--the Fifth Anniversary of that never-to-be-forgotten occasion--let's you and me, Mr. Citizen, turn our thoughts to those who made possible that great Victory. Let's honor the lads who served with the colors--those lads who sacrificed all else so that we might enjoy Peace, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness to their fullest extent.

And when the eventful hour strikes--11 a. m.--let's doff our hats, face east and give a silent prayer for those of our defenders who so unselfishly laid their lives on the altar of Patriotism for Humanity's sake.

CENTRAL HIGH GRIDDERS STAGE COMEBACK AND DEFEAT GREENFIELD MCCLAIN 13 TO 0

A football team that can come back after a defeat-laden and disheartening season and show the fighting spirit to win, has the qualities of championship in the making.

The Xenia Central High football team enrolled itself in this class of immortals at Greenfield Friday by overcoming the jinx that has followed the eleven through the season and defeating McClain High 13 to 0. Intentionally it was the first game in which the blue and white postmen scored a touchdown this season. A real fighting spirit enabled Coach Turner's much abused athletes to guster the victory. Captain Don Miller and his mates battled like a roid of tigers from the sound of the starting whistle and were still saulting Coach Hays' proteges with n and vigor when the game was dead.

Straight, old-fashioned, knock'em-out football, turned the trick for the Xenia eleven Friday after every known type of offensive play had been experimented with during the season to put the eleven on a winning basis. The backfield men, rarely attempting end runs and seldom resorting to the aerial game, pounded the guards and center and crashed off tackle for practically all the yards made. First down after down were piled up in successive order until Captain Don Miller charged off tackle for the first touchdown in the second quarter.

Schwab, called back from end, for the try for point missed a drop kick attempt. In the third period, Quarterback Holton unleashed another driving attack accompanied by sanguine results. Using his backfield men like sledgehammers he hammered the Greenfield line to the breaking point and ball toters sifted through these cracks for yards. Art Currie, playing at full back, smashed the line for the final touchdown and Schwab made the goal attempt good.

The successful effort at the forward passing game resulted in failure when Zell on the receiving end squeezed the pellet too hard and it popped out of his hand like a wet cake of soap. Fighting furiously on defense, the Greenfield aggregation never had a chance. The Xenia line charged well breaking up plays back of the line and taking all comes in every direction. The McClain athletes uncorked a clever passing attack at times fraught with results, but which was also solved before it became dangerous.

Fans who witnessed the game, were reluctant to pick stars among the Xenia team, for all the athletes played in such a dashing, sparkling style that they excelled any of their previous efforts on the gridiron this season. The success of the backfield combination probably insures its use against London High in the dedication game next week.

The lineup: Xenia—Spahr, le. Scury and Bryson it; Jordan ig; Horner c; Botoroff rg; Keller and Bryson, rt Schwab re; Holton qb; Zell lb; Fulder (c), rbb; Currie, fb.

WINCHESTERS MAKE DISASTROUS DEBUT WITH BELLBROOK 5

Babb's Winchester basketball team made its seasonal debut at Bellbrook Friday night, losing to the Bellbrook Merchants by a count of 32 to 10.

The Xenia postmen were handicapped by the small floor and low beams, but despite the inconvenience the game was fast and offered much interest to fans. Baynard, crack forward on the Xenia five, was the only Xenia athlete to register a field goal. Cramer and Wright, former Bellbrook High players, starred for the Merchants. The lineup and summary:

Winchester 10; Bellbrook 32. W. Baynard.....lf.....Wright; Baynard.....c.....Cramer; Hendrickson.....g.....Booram; Kautinger.....lg.....Sackett; Witham.....rg.....Woods; Substitutions: Xenia—Mutterspaw for Baynard, Terrell for Hendrickson, Baynard for Mutterspaw; Hendrickson for Terrell. Field Goals: Baynard 3, Cramer 4, Wright 5; Booram 3, Woods 1, Sackett 1. Foul Goals: Baynard 1, Woolary 1, Hendrickson 1, Reutinger 1, Cramer 1, Sackett 1, Referee, Gibbons.

CEDARVILLE LOSES SECOND ENCOUNTER TO ANTIOCH ELEVEN

Antioch College football team won its second game of the season from Cedarville College at Cedarville Friday afternoon, in one of the most interest contests in the history of the annual meetings between these schools.

Cedarville, fighting hard to avenge the defeat suffered at the hands of Antioch by a big score in the opening game of the season, presented a defense that weakened sufficiently to permit but one touchdown, while showing an offense that several times threatened to score. The best offensive effort however, was a field goal that could not be repeated for a tie.

Tom Hollencamp, former Central High star, played halfback for Antioch and staged a whirlwind game, his plunging winning many yards for Coach Prugh's team. Larry Currie, another former Central High star, played equally able in the backfield of the Cedarville, and was rated as the mainspring of the Reformed Presbyterian's offense.

The game was scouted by Jerry L. Katherman, former Central High coach, who now coaches Capital College at Columbus, which team will be met by Cedarville soon at Columbus.

Grid-Dust

By Ray Higgins

High School football is the prep school of big university football. Few men who have not won their spurs in prep school succeed in the sport in college circles. Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame miracle man being a notable exception.

And each year the qualities of training in high school may more and more be measured by the subsequent success of the athlete in higher schools. The high school grid training may be under but it is the establishment of a foundation of future football heights.

Xenia Central High, through years of off and on teams, has contributed a liberal sprinkling of stars to the college game. The majority of these sparkled in the high school game here and readily adopted themselves to faster company. Many other high school stars would have been attended with equal success had they proceeded to college.

Among those who could be mentioned are Clarence Denner, who starred on the 1911 team and afterwards became an all-Ohio end at the University of Cincinnati, and "Bud" Snodgrass, who played end for Denison University until an injury and subsequent illness forced him to give up the pastime and other stars of prior history.

Among former Central High athletes now performing on college gridirons are Larry Currie, Walker Taylor and Lew McCoy, of Cedarville College, the first two having practically built up the team at Cedarville when that school introduced the grid sport a few years ago.

Tom Hollencamp is the bulwark of the backfield at Antioch College and "Red" Randall is sparkling in the backfield at Wilmington College.

Bob Ballentine is captain of the freshman team at Muskingum College this year and John Ballentine, his brother, was a varsity player at that school until his graduation.

Bob Moore starred in basketball at that school and is now a successful football coach. Paul Boxwell is a member of the freshman squad at Ohio State University and "Yank" Stephens was a freshman star at Miami and later played at Cedarville.

Horace Smith is on the freshman squad at Swarthmore and Don Currie is a member of the Yearling squad at Ohio Wesleyan.

KS TO MASONIC CLUB IN XENIA ON "EXPLOSIONS" FRIDAY

The speaker gave humorous stories, illustrating points of his address.

Masons from Wilmington, Yellow Springs, Jamestown, Cedarville, and other nearby towns attended the banquet and program. In addition to Mr. Miller's talk, the policies and future activities of the club were discussed in talks by members. The membership of the club included between 250 and 300 Masons.

Dr. A. C. Messenger, was elected president of the club, at the election following the meeting. Roy Hayward was elected secretary; A. E. Faulkner, treasurer; and E. S. Foust, William Downs, Frank Fisher and Jacob Kany, with the officers, compose the Board of Directors.

COLLEGE TO OPEN BUSINESS SCHOOL

President Jay, of Wilmington College, is announcing the decision of the Board of Trustees and the faculty to open shortly a business training school in connection with the college.

The Trustees of the Walker Memorial building are willing to lease to the college the library rooms of the memorial building for the purpose, it is understood and the new department of the college will be conducted similarly to all other such office training schools, the downtown location being preferred to the college classrooms for the purpose.

Asked what the nature of the courses would be, President Jay declared that they would be the same as those offered by standard commercial schools over the country and in addition the students would be offered the opportunity of taking course in the college, thus enabling them to take the business training and at the same time carry college studies, and while engaged in a very practical work could catch the spirit of the college student body and be a very vital part of it.

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

BRINGING UP FATHER

AUTO CLUB WARNS OF CITY ORDINANCES

In view of promised prosecutions by police for motor violations, Diver Belden, secretary of The Greene County Automobile Club is warning motorists to observe state laws and city ordinances.

The Automobile Club is calling particular attention to violators of the parking ordinances, who have been arousing the ire of police for some time. Police say motorists disregard parking lines drawn, do not park within the marked lines but straddle them, reducing parking space, that they park too near fire plugs and when the streets are crowded that many machines are parked parallel with the curb but in the rear of autos parked in the proper manner so that these machines cannot be moved.

Police prosecution also will include speeding, motorists who do not have rear lights on their machines and drivers who have the automobile mufflers open. The Automobile Club will co-operate with authorities in the support of these laws.

A new sign, designating the office of the club has been placed in a prominent position in front of the office at Main and Whiteman streets so that tourists can find motor headquarters, it is announced by Belden.

ZANGWILL CONTINUES TO CRITICIZE

New York, Nov. 10.—America is in the stage of her growth when she needs bricksbats much more than bouquets, according to Israel Zangwill, the celebrated English novelist and playwright, who has industriously engaged in handing America the British raspberry for the last several days. "After all," he said, "I am not a diplomat, but an author, and it is an author's business to tell the truth. The truth about America is good and bad, of course, but my time here is short and I intend to devote it wholly to criticism."

THINGS UNSPOKEN Chapter 10

She gazed unflinchingly into his questioning eyes. "This is a favorite haunt of mine." She patted the moss fondly with her outstretched palm. "I have been coming here for just ages—many, many times before you discovered it," she answered, smiling a little.

A hot red flushed his face and neck. "It does sound a bit conceited; but I was curious to know if you knew that I was coming—if you sort of—of felt it in your bones," he said laughingly.

"I thought we decided not to consider things like that, but just take each other for granted—to be impersonal," she reminded, turning away from the penetrating gaze of his wide blue eyes.

"That sounds like an awfully cold proposition," he returned, watching her closely.

She sat very quiet, save for one white hand which pulled at the long green strands of the thick mosses.

"It's not a bad idea to steel yourself coldly against things. It's quite a protection," she said finally, challenging him with her dark eyes.

"But think of all the warmth you miss," he pleaded.

"But suppose you don't dare let yourself be vulnerable to the warmth for fear it will weaken your purpose?"

He thought a minute. "Then you believe that if you confessed honestly that you had come here today because you thought I might come too, you would in some way weaken that superb, lonely strength of yours?"

She turned her face away from him and looked out across the blue lake that shone through a break in the foliage.

"Yes! If I confessed that I came here because I hoped that you would be here, that would immediately make it imperative that I should never come again."

"And do you want to come again? Tell me!" he demanded eagerly, catching her hand and laying it outstretched against the moss.

"Please—don't!" she said, answering the pressure of his finger with a tiny little squeeze, but quickly, firmly, pulling her hand away from his detaining grasp.

He felt that he was hitting her, so he kept penitent silence beside her

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

on the mosses, for a long time. He knew instinctively, without her having to say it, that she had forgiven him his bold impetuosity; and she knew perfectly that he understood she had been waiting for him and hoping that he would come. They had no use for words and their hearts rushed recklessly together through the silence.

After a very long time she leaned over and said gently:

"Talk to me. Won't you?" She did not tell him that she was almost afraid of their long silence with its implied intimacy.

He pulled his long legs up under him and turned eagerly toward her, gazing into her eyes with a fierce penetration which she found difficult to face.

"Can't you tell me about yourself and your life?" he interrogated. It's only right that you should tell me something," he added. "There is something about you that makes me want to tell you—and—and yet I'm afraid to. It might make things harder for me," she answered softly.

"But it's hard now—dreadfully hard isn't it?"

"Yes; it's hard—but it's going to be worth it," she declared, trying to smile up at him in spite of the pain which shone in her dark eyes.

"Can't you tell me what your name is? Not his name! I want to know what yours is, please?" he coaxed. "I want to call you by your own name."

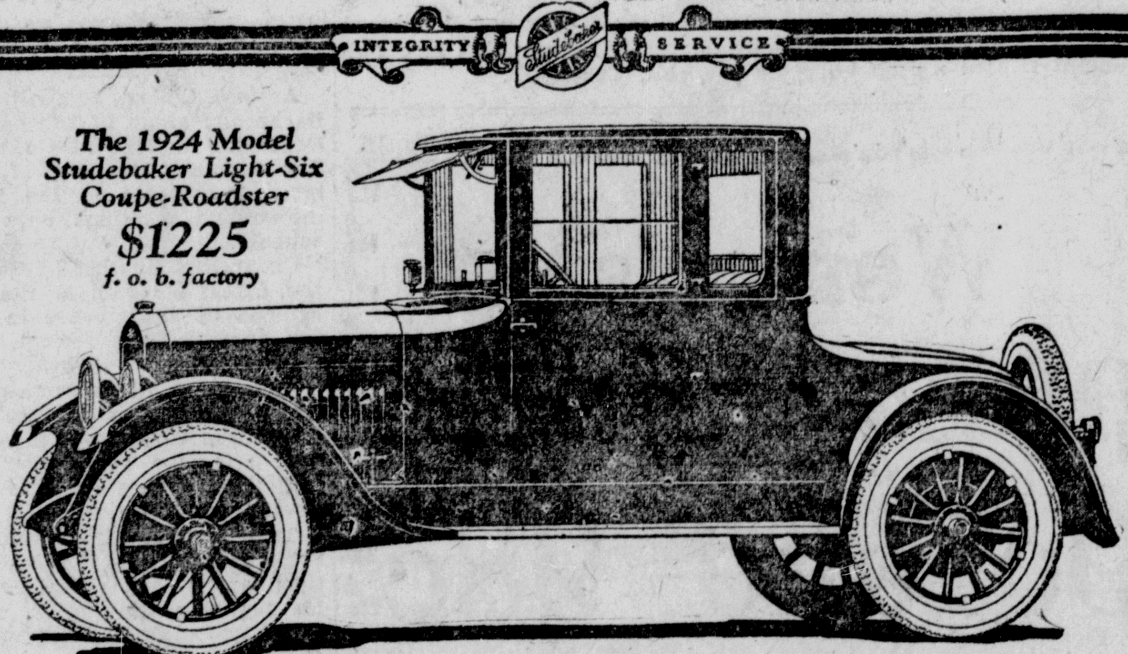

"No, I don't mind telling you that. It's Hope," she laughed gaily but Lee detected a hidden bitterness in the laughing tones. "How?" That's rather an odd name for me to have. Don't you think so? Sometimes I think it's almost cynical," she declared with a forced lightness.

Lee looked at her closely and the deep pain which he detected shining cruelly back of her laughing face made him long to take her into his arms. He knew that she did not need him; but he suddenly felt his own aching need of her small vital strength and he longed to claim it. Then he looked down at her hands and saw that they were clenched and that she had forgotten his presence and was looking far across the lake with impenetrable purpose in her steady gaze.

Tomorrow—The Danger of Silence

JUDGE STOUGHTON DEAD

Logan, O., Nov. 10.—John Stoughton, 54, former probate judge of Hocking county, died suddenly here following a heart attack. Stoughton was chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Hocking county and a former state prohibition officer.

The 1924 Model Studebaker Light-Six closed cars are quality cars.

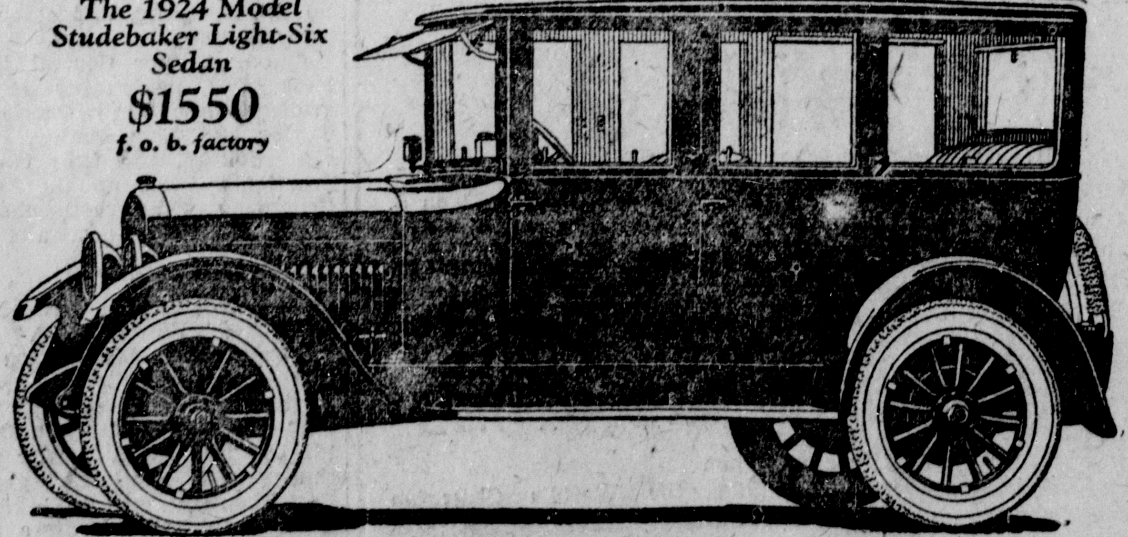

They are built to endure—to give lasting satisfaction.

Both body and chassis are produced in Studebaker plants where painstaking craftsmanship has always been the rule—and the practice.

By manufacturing complete motors, transmissions, axles, frames, bodies, tops, castings, forgings, and stampings, parts-makers' profits are eliminated from costs, and one profit only is included in Studebaker prices.

NEWARK MAN IS KILLED BY TWO MEN SATURDAY

ould Be Robbers Attack Two in Restaurant Early Saturday

Newark, O., Nov. 10.—W. R. Foster, assistant outside foreman of the O. shops here, was shot and killed by a masked robber at 2:40 morning in the W. R. Scott restaurant in South Morris street, and the B. and O. round house, Smith had gone to eat lunch, of drugs after the proprietor and was a customer had entered the restaurant. Two masked men appeared at recently, out door and without uttering a word they opened fire, but the shots had no effect. Foster grabbed the larger and older man and threw him on the floor, and the smaller masked man placed a .32 calibre revolver close to Foster's head and pulled the trigger, the bullet going through the top of his head, killing him instantly. The murderer and his pal then escaped in the darkness without robbing the place, as is believed was their original intention. Foster came to this city from his former home in Lockland, a suburb of Cincinnati, last December. His wife and two small children are in Lockland now and have been notified of his death. The father of the deceased who is in Delaware, O., has also been notified.

MRS. STOKES WINS CASE; CHARGES ARE IGNORED BY JURY

New York, Nov. 10.—The honor of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes has been indicated after a five-year battle. A verdict of her peers said "No" to the charges of infidelity brought against her millionaire husband. The case was out an hour and seven minutes. As the issues in the case had reduced to the one count of perjury against Edgar T. Wallace in his apartment here, the jury's negative answer to that part of the interrogatory was the signal of defeat for the plaintiff. The jury took only one ballot.

Though the charges of misconduct against Mrs. Stokes have been disposed of, the courts are not yet through with the Stokes case. Isadore Shapiro of counsel for Mrs. Stokes announced that the separation action started by Mrs. Stokes against her husband was on the calendar in the special term of the supreme court for next Monday.

As she was preparing to leave the courtroom, Mrs. Stokes said that none but a mother's heart could know her joy and happiness. "A jury of American men," she said, "have looked into my heart and vindicated me of the charges brought against me by the man who in my trusting girlhood I believed would love and cherish me through life. But it is not for myself I care. My happiness is for my children."

DIVERGENCE IN VIEWS OF GOLD STORES IN GERMANY EVIDENT

Paris, Nov. 10.—The French foreign office today issued a communique indicating there existed a wide divergence of opinion between Paris and Washington regarding the German gold stores in foreign countries.

The foreign office holds it is preferable that there be no international conference of reparations experts than that the inevitable danger that it would break up without result, after starting to work, "because France is upholding the inviolability of the Versailles treaty and is unable to agree to extension of the committee's scope."

The communique said in part: "Examination of Germany's capacity for reparations payments and the program of payments over a period of years would be futile unless Germany's foreign resources are first evaluated.

The communique said France was willing to aid any international inquiry of the reparations problem to the extent of her expressed ability. The communication quoted from a speech by President Willibrod of the international chamber of commerce convention in Rome last March backing up the French viewpoint.

Armistice Day Observed With Special Exercises

Armistice Day will be celebrated in Xenia Saturday and Sunday with special exercises starting Saturday evening at seven o'clock when Benson W. Hough, U. S. District attorney at Cincinnati, will deliver an address at Cox Memorial Field, under the auspices of Joseph Poody Post, No. 85 American Legion.

Judge Hough will be introduced by C. L. Darlington, former local post and Ohio commander who in turn will be introduced by Dr. B. R. McClellan, post commander. An elaborate fireworks display will follow the patriotic address.

Greene County churches will give special emphasis to the spiritual significance of Armistice Day and to the Red Cross Sunday, during the regular services. In addition the Federal Council of Churches has asked every minister throughout the United States to point out the peace powers of the World Court, of which the late President Harding spoke so encouragingly, "the court of all the nations, a sort of supreme court of the world."

The churches in the county in general will give emphasis to one or all of these themes. The Rev. C. P. Proud fit of the Second United Presbyterian Church, will preach on "The Chal-

BREWSTERIES IN SEVERAL STATES TO BE SEIZED

Federal Prohibition Officials to Follow Up Activities In Pennsylvania With Similar Moves In New Jersey, Ohio, and New York

Washington, Nov. 10.—Federal prohibition officials will quickly follow-up the seizures of a large number of Pennsylvania breweries with seizures of breweries in New Jersey, Ohio, New York and probably a few other states, it was learned today.

All of the breweries listed for service have been operating under non-beverage permits and are alleged to have manufactured and sold high proof beer. Officials of the Treasury's prohibition unit, co-operating with officials of the department will seek to "padlock" between 40 and 50 breweries in their present drive against illicit beer.

LLOYD GEORGE TO FIGHT BALDWIN'S PROTECTIVE PLAN

London, Nov. 10.—Great crowds at Southampton and London greeted David Lloyd George on his return from America.

The former premier declared he was in fighting trim and forthwith announced that he would fight Premier Baldwin's protectionist policy and come out as a protagonist of free trade. He also made the important statement that he would serve under Asquith if the Liberals are returned to power at the next election.

Lloyd George declared himself immensely struck by the absence of military posts along the Canadian border, "a marvelous object lesson in what two nations can do if they allow good feeling, neighborliness and common sense to dominate their relations instead of anger, suspicion, envy, hatred and revenge." "That is what the British empire and the United States are going to teach the world," he said. "The resources of the two great commonwealths are infinite." He described America as a "great country of infinite abundance, with a virile, determined, resourceful population of great hearted people, worthy to occupy the land that yields more freely to the hand of man than any other country in the world."

from the courts closing the Pennsylvania breweries already seized, federal officials then will extend their campaign to other states in their support to make the complete roundup of alleged violators of the liquor law.

Officials are proceeding under internal revenue laws which are held to be far more effective in curbing the breweries, than the process of injunction. Prohibition officials today planned their next attack upon New Jersey breweries. The New Jersey liquor situation has been regarded by officials as one which has been most troublesome. In New Jersey and other states yet to be invaded with the "padlock" Chief Yellowley, of the force of general prohibition agents has made a thorough investigation. This has extended over several weeks. The proof gathered by Yellowley is held by legal experts of the prohibition unit to be sufficient to close the largest breweries of the country for a period of one year at least.

GREAT BRITAIN FACES TASK OF BRINGING PEACE

Up to That Nation to Save Reparations Conference From Doom

Washington, Nov. 10.—Unless Great Britain can blow the breath of life into a new effort at solving the reparations problem, it appeared today that this rancorous controversy will continue to bedevil the world and retard Europe's economic and financial recovery.

It is now up to Great Britain and the other Allies, Italy and Belgium. The most ambitious attempt at finding a solution for the problem that has been made since the treaty of Versailles was signed, has, for the moment, resulted in failure, despite the initiative and aid proffered by the United States.

The future course of the United States was considered today to be uncertain. Whether having been rebuffed by France, this government will again retire to its shell of aloofness from the whole controversy or whether it will participate in a renewed effort at solving the problem without the aid of the French government, remains to be seen. Secretary of State Hughes and President Coolidge were non-committal on this subject today.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The United States rejected the French restriction limiting the proposed Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's ability to pay during the next six years.

The American government adheres to its original position that any inquiry involving American participation must be broad and inclusive. These declarations of the American stand were made in President Coolidge's behalf at the white house after the cabinet meeting. They left no room for doubt.

The official declaration at the state department was outlined as follows: The secretary of state has informed the French ambassador that in the opinion of our government the limitations proposed by France would frustrate the purposes of the suggested inquiry by an economic conference. Any inquiry shackled by the restrictions demanded by Premier Poincare, the president feels, would be useless and futile. There would be no use calling together the experts of four or five nations to determine Germany's present capacity to pay. That question, in the president's opinion, should be answered by any ordinary auditor.

With reference to the Poincare restriction that the experts should not deal with Germany's capacity beyond 1930, the spokesman explained that there is no reason to expect that, within such a short time, Germany could re-establish industrial and productive activity.

The president's view was summarized officially in substance as follows: Germany could hardly begin in such a short time to meet reparations to such an extent that it would be any use of inquiring into her capacity.

The white house declaration finally rejecting the Poincare terms was made after strenuous efforts to prevent the formal burial of the Hughes-Curzon plan for American participation in the reparations controversy. The collapse of the Hughes-Curzon scheme, forecast exclusively in these dispatches ten days ago, had been confessed in Washington with reluctance, and there was a tragic instant in the last.

SCHWAB EXPLAINS LOANS TO WOMAN

Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes

For 20 years Charles M. Schwab, steel master and multi-millionaire made loans to Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes, who is now under indictment in New York charged with forging his name to notes which she was using to finance the erection of a $5,000,000 apartment hotel in Boston. He made the loans he swore in bankruptcy proceedings in New York, because in 1902 he had advanced her $2000 and he feared that if he should stop there would be some publicity regarding his past loan to her which would result in an erroneous construction being placed upon his previous association with her.

SEEK REDUCTION OF U. S. FREIGHT RATES AT MEET

LaFollette and Adherents to Hold Conference on Matter

Washington, Nov. 10.—A general conference of the LaFollette "progressive" bloc in congress to map out a definite legislative program will be held at some time between Nov. 20 and Dec. 1.

According to Senator Frazier of North Dakota, one of this group on the Republican side, the formal call will be issued by Senator LaFollette, who called the "progressive" conference held here last November.

The caucus will embrace Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Labor members with leanings toward the principles advocated by LaFollette and his adherents. It will include several who did not participate in the conference last year, Frazier declared.

Among the Republicans he lists Senators Brookhart, Norris, Frazier, LaFollette, Howell, Ladd and Norbeck. Democrats include Senators Adams, Wheeler, Dill and possibly Mayfield. The two Farmer-Labor members from Minnesota, Magnus Johnson and Shipstead, complete the senatorial list.

From the house there will be the entire Wisconsin Republican delegation of 10 members, with a number of single shooters from other states or the northwest. It is claimed there will be 30 to 50 house members included.

Agricultural and transportation legislation will receive major consideration. There will be a strong effort made to secure legislation to establish the prices of principal agricultural products, such as wheat, corn, cotton and live stock. Senator Frazier expects the caucus to get behind the Norris-Sinclair bill introduced in the last congress, or a similar measure.

Transportation legislation with center around rate revision, in Frazier's opinion. It will be insisted that freight rates on farm products must be reduced and that lower rates be provided on things the farmers must buy, particularly farm machinery. Senator LaFollette, it is known, will issue a public statement within a few days. This statement will be his first since his return from

Leader Agrees Not to Take Part in Any Further Agitations

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm crossed the frontier from Holland into Germany at Benthelm, Hanover, during the night, accompanied by his personal adjutant, Major Muelndner Von Muelnheim, according to authoritative information received here this afternoon.

A German police official met the pair and proceeded with them in a Breslau train via Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—General Erich Ludendorff, former quartermaster-general in the German army, who was taken prisoner when the Hitler uprising in Bavaria collapsed, was released today upon his word of honor that he would not take part in any further agitations against the government.

Ludendorff must hold himself at the disposal of the government pending any formal charge that may be made against him in the future.

It was reported that former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm had crossed the frontier into Germany, passing through Berlin this morning on his way to his Silesian estate at Oels, but this was officially denied. The "putsch" originating in a Munich beer cellar cost the Republic forces not more than half a dozen killed, "probably not that many" and a dozen wounded. The rebel casualties have not been determined.

Hitler, the man who ensnared Ludendorff into the madcap adventures is a fugitive from justice.

German Republican officials declared today that the movement to restore the monarchy in Germany has been virtually crushed by the defeat of the Bavarian nationalists by loyal Reichswehr troops along the "Bavarian front."

Loyal reichswehr forces and the defection of Dictator Von Kahr, who reasserted his authority following his declaration that he only assented to the Ludendorff-Hitler program at the point of a pistol, broke the back of the revolution.

A late dispatch from Munich states that when a one-hour ultimatum was sent to Hitler and Ludendorff, barricaded with a few loyal Hitler storm troops in the war ministry building, Ludendorff refused to fire on his former comrades or direct the fire. He came out and gave himself up to the commander of two battalions of reichswehr about to storm the building. The Hitler army of more than 4,000, supposedly ready to die for him, has melted away. The resistance of the army was not great, only a few taking up the defense of the building. The reichswehr and police had two dead and about 10 wounded, and there were seven or eight casualties on Hitler's side. Hitler, though wounded, is said to have made his escape.

Following the reassertion of authority by Dictator Von Kahr, he ordered the arrest of all followers of Hitler, and decreed that the "party" must be dissolved. All the government buildings are now in the hands of Von Kahr and the loyal reichswehr.

General Von Seeckt, who was made virtual military dictator for Germany by President Ebert, issued a proclamation to the reichswehr in which he said: "I have been entrusted with executive power and am conscious of my responsibility to the people. I know I can depend with rock-like confidence on the German army and navy. There is no strife between the north and south. I will put down any coup from whatever side it arises and I ask all classes of people to loyally support the reichswehr."

Not only Germany, but Austria and Hungary were to be the scenes of nationalist revolts planned by Hitler and Ludendorff. That has been revealed in documents confiscated at Budapest, where three alleged co-conspirators with Hitler and Ludendorff were arrested. One of these documents was a regular treaty between the fascists of Bavaria and Hungary, according to which the Bavarians were to furnish troops, especially officers, for a nationalist revolt in Hungary in the middle of November, in return for Hungarian grain for Bavaria.

Several members of the Hitler organization have been arrested at Budapest.

BUSINESS SECTION
SEA OF FLAGS IN
DAY'S CELEBRATION

Xenia's business section was a sea of flags Saturday, in recognition of the fifth annual Armistice Day.

At eleven o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1918, fighting along the great battle front that had been thrown up between the Allies and the Boches, ceased.

In the return along the road leading away from war and toward peace and prosperity, the United States of America has probably progressed farther than any of the other participants of the conflict known as the World War.

Allied nations on two continents celebrate Armistice Day as the anniversary of the conclusion of the most disastrous warfare in which the world has ever been involved. Great cities and little hamlets are flinging their national colors to the breeze and arranging celebrations that bid fair in this country to make the day stand out equal in significance with Independence Day.

Ideal weather, Saturday greeted the scheduled peace day celebration here. Stores and business houses were open Saturday, preferring to give proper significance to the day, which this year falls on Sunday, on the following Monday. Public offices including the Court House and City Hall will be closed Monday in observance of the day, and churches and lodges will hold their program Sunday.

The appearance of the American Flag Saturday was believed to be the most general exhibition of the red, white and blue that has been evidenced here for some time, partly due to the request of the American Legion to so signify its Armistice Day celebration.

MR. AND MRS. WOLF

"I have looked for some time for a nice place, and I think I have found it now," said Mrs. Wolf.

"I looked at a good many. In fact, I almost set up housekeeping in several and cleaned the dens out, but I didn't like them finally. I thought I could get a nicer home."

"Ah, Mrs. Wolf," said Mr. Wolf, "this is beautiful. This is a perfect home. And how lovely this weather is."

"Dear Mr. Wolf, would any one imagine that the wild and dangerous and blood-thirsty wolf would talk about the weather," Mrs. Wolf chuckled.

"Ah, they don't know," said Mr. Wolf. "They do not know how we are when we are at home. We love each other so."

"We whisper all sorts of little things to each other, though to us they are not 'whispers.' They're 'some things' of great importance."

"Yes, this home is perfect. Well, Mrs. Wolf, I had a dangerous time not long ago. I thought I was caught."

"Ah, don't tell me that," said Mrs. Wolf.

"But you need not worry now," said Mr. Wolf, "for you see that I am here, all safe and sound."

"Yes, yes," said Mrs. Wolf, "but I cannot bear to think that you have been exposed to danger."

"But you have escaped! Yes, you have escaped, and you will be more careful in the future?"

"I am careful," said Mr. Wolf, "but I will be even more careful. I had been hunting and having a little meal and was taking a nap away from the hunting ground—but not far enough away.

"Don't Tell Me That," Said Mrs. Wolf.

"For an old hunter came after me and almost would have had me."

"But the wind was in the right direction so I could get a whiff of the human being coming toward me."

"If it had not been for that wind I would not have been here now."

"Oh, Mr. Wolf, what a narrow escape. And how thankful I am it was an escape!"

"I wish I could give the wind a present to show my gratitude, but the wind isn't the kind of a creature or a thing to whom one can give a present."

"But I am grateful, oh, so grateful," Mrs. Wolf said.

"Yes," Mr. Wolf continued, "we want to be safe, for we only have each other."

At that, tears came in Mrs. Wolf's eyes.

"There, there," he said, "there will be other little wolves, and I am happy for we have each other. That means everything, Mrs. Wolf."

"How well I remember, too, when there were the dear little wolf babies—three darling babies there were last spring. And after they were born and I was so afraid that something would happen to them, you kept us supplied with food so that I did not have to leave them."

"But oh, Mr. Wolf, for the longest time I thought every time I came back to the den that somehow or other I would find my babies. Again and again I looked for them—after they had been killed and taken away."

"Oh dear, how sad it was. They were never there. And then we stood it for as long as we could, and now we have another den."

"Yes, and we have a fine hill from which we can see what is going on."

"And we will be happy, and there will be other little wolves," Mrs. Wolf said.

"But best of all, Mr. Wolf, there is my dear mate."

And then she laughed.

"How strangely our talk would sound to people. They do not know that wolves are different at home from when they see them."

"And after all I think it is better to be nice in the home than outside it. At any rate that is what you think, and it is what I think, for we are two devoted wolves."

"Two devoted wolves is what we are," said Mr. Wolf as he patted Mrs. Wolf on the shoulder and looked at her out of his eyes which now were very loving and affectionate.

TO PROBE OHIO COAL RATES

Washington, Nov. 10.—The interstate commerce commission broadened the scope of its sweeping coal rate investigation to include bituminous and semi-bituminous coal and coke from points in Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Pennsylvania to New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Dec. 1 was set as the date for a hearing. It

EDUCATION BOARDS
NOT RESPONSIBLE

Columbus, Nov. 10.—Attorney General Crabbe holds that boards of education are not liable for damages for injuries resulting to school children from accidents caused by the negligence of drivers of school motor buses. It is also cited that boards of education are not authorized to carry liability insurance to protect the boards and school children even though the law compels school children to be transported to school under certain conditions. In the latter connection, the opinion directs attention to the passage of a law authorizing boards to take out liability insurance, and its subsequent veto by the governor.

COOLIDGE SEEKING
ADVICE ON PROGRAM

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Coolidge is asking the advice of all Republican members of the senate and of the Republican leaders in the house on the general legislation program he will recommend to congress when it is convened in December. The president's message, which is scheduled to be delivered Tuesday, Dec. 4, the day after the opening session, if the possible fight over organization in both houses does not result in a tieup, is awaited probably with more interest than any similar document since the war. In the stand Mr. Coolidge will be forced to take on pressing international and domestic issues, he may make or break himself so far as the presidential nomination is concerned. His attitude on these questions is expected to supply the issues that will bring a number of opponents for the nomination into the field.

U. S. POLICY AS TO
DEBTS UNCHANGED

Washington, Nov. 10.—The policy of the United States with reference to debts owed by foreign nations remains unchanged despite developments growing out of the Hughes-Curzon inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay. This was made plain in behalf of President Coolidge at the white house. The president feels that congress has made clear the American policy by establishing the world war foreign debt commission and laying down the procedure to be followed by debtor nations in settling their obligations.

BERNARR MACFADDEN

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

I wish to emphasize the practice of relaxation as an element of health-building. There are thousands of people who go about in their waking hours in a state of nervous tension and who even sleep with their hands tightly gripping the bed clothes as though something desperate would happen if they let go of themselves. This condition of tension involves a terrible waste of energy, and in some cases, if not overcome, is alone sufficient to prevent any material gain in strength and vitality.

The power to relax will give one greater efficiency and power in any endeavor or occupation, not merely because of the saving of energy that would otherwise be wasted, but because of the better control which one may thereby enjoy both over himself and the external affairs with which he has to deal. Well-seasoned athletes know and appreciate this keenly. It is an indispensable feature of good boxing, for in a contest one cannot afford to squander his strength through unnecessary tension or to have his muscles so tied up in this way that he cannot act instantaneously when an opening presents itself. If it is necessary for him to relax his stiffened and contracted muscles and then to contract them again in order to strike, he will be too late. The boxer who has not yet learned the lesson of relaxation is hopelessly handicapped.

And it is so in other matters, not merely in athletics, but in every phase of life. If you have the least tendency towards nervousness or excitability, or if you have not yet acquired the power to relax each and every part of the body absolutely at will, then you should immediately set about the study and practice of relaxation until you have secured such control over yourself. If it means nothing to you just now, there may come a time before long when it will mean everything to you. And it will help you to get control of your body from the standpoint of contracting the muscles and extending your strength as well. Before long you will be able to relax utterly without assistance of these special movements:

First, while standing without tension, raise one arm at a time to the level of the head, and after a moment relax the muscles, letting it drop loose and limp to the side, where it should swing once or twice if it is properly relaxed.

Next walk slowly and carefully across the floor with the entire upper body relaxed.

PAYMASTER HOLD UP

Dayton, O., Nov. 10.—Two masked gunmen held up the paymaster of the Eby Manufacturing company and escaped with approximately $10,000. Leo Willis, the paymaster, was walking toward the plant with the money in a bag when a large touring car drew up to the curb and stopped. One of the holdup men got out of the car and jammed a revolver in Willis' ribs, took the money bag, climbed back into the car and fled.

CREDIT FOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL
VICTORY IS GIVEN TO MRS. EMMA ZELL
WHO HAS BEEN CHOSEN TEAM'S MOTHER

Central High School football players, following their first victory of the season over McClain High at Greenfield Friday, were giving the credit to Mrs. Emma Zell, South Detroit street, grandmother of Allen Zell, crack left halfback on the team and who has been chosen "Mother" of the Central High School eleven.

Players give Mrs. Zell the credit because she arranged a dinner in their honor at Central High Thursday evening, which will go down in the school's history as one of the most rousing and successful "pep" meetings that ever inspired a blue and white team to victory. Following the send off given the team, Captain Don Fuller and his cohorts said they "just couldn't lose."

Mrs. LeRoy Zell, Mrs. Zell's daughter, who is domestic science teacher at Central High was the actual hostess of the affair, assisted by her mother. The tables were laid in the high school dining room in the form of an "X" and decorated with streamers of blue and white, the school colors. The football, decorated with the letters "X. H. S." in blue, surrounded a crystal pedestal, with the streamers leading from the ball to each player's plate.

Mrs. Zell, acting as toastmistress, told the players that the significance of the streamers and the ball was to impress each player to support the ball and carry it to the goal. Mrs. Zell retold the story of the man and his seven sons and the bundle of sticks, applying it to the football team. In a bundle tied with blue and white streamers and

QUART OF WATER
CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

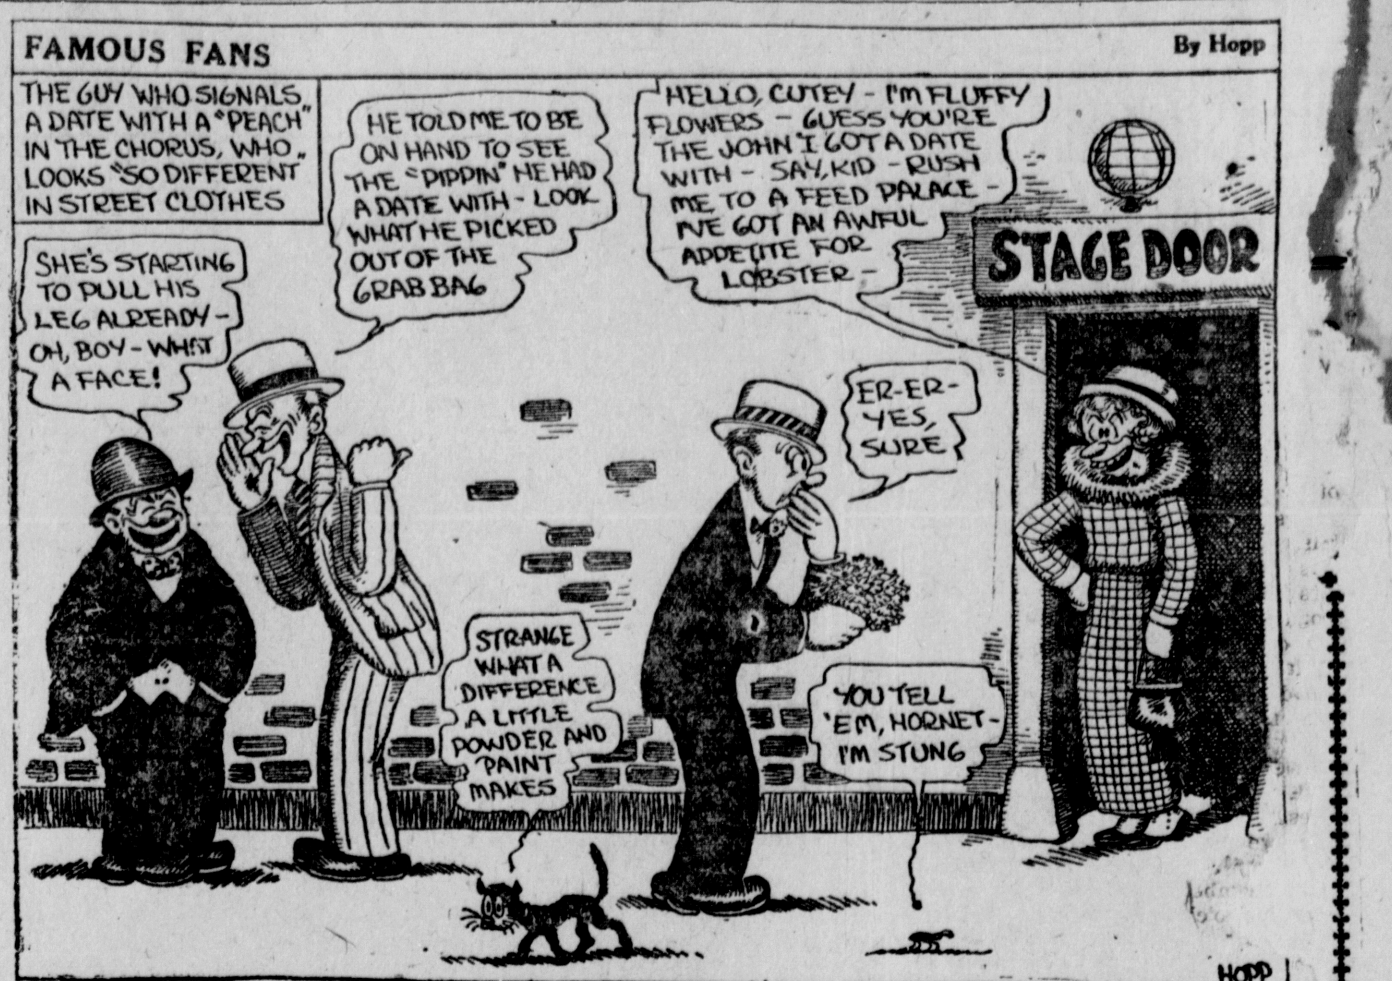

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

gether on the gridiron, they could not fail of victory.

Dr. Wilbur C. Zell, Central High star of 20 years ago, was a guest at the banquet and told the players that his team of two decades ago was also in a losing slump like the present team, but that co-ordination of team play finally turned the season from disaster into success. Talks were given by Coach Burgner, Superintendent of Schools, C. A. Waltz and Business Manager John R. Beacham along the same lines. William Horner, center on the eleven, responded with a lively toast in which he spoke of the Miss Dorothy Zell, twin sister of the team on the field. Captain Don Fuller, in her honor, Fuller toasted Superintendent Waltz and Allen Zell also talked briefly, each giving good talks that were inspiring. A delicious dinner was served by Mrs. Zell, preceding the speaking program.

Captain Fuller asked "Mother" Zell for instructions before leaving for Greenfield Friday. He was told to "keep sweet and play ball." Central High won the game, its first of the season, 13 to 0.

PREPARE RECEIPTS OF TAX COLLECTION
AT LOCAL OFFICE

With the tax books in several districts held up pending the outcome of Tuesday's election, employees in the office of County Treasurer F. A. Jackson are now working feverishly to prepare tax receipts for the collection rush anticipated soon.

Some taxpayers are already settling their semi-annual tax demands. It is said at the treasurer's office, but collection will not swing into full being until after receipts are completed in about two weeks, according to Treasurer Jackson.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

Business is better in Texas proportionally than in any of the Southern States east of the Appalachian range, entirely due to the good cotton crop in the Lone Star State. So likewise, matters are more promising in Louisiana comparatively, than in the cotton-raising Commonwealths to the North, not only because it suffered less loss from the boll weevil and bad weather, but also because it has sugar and rice as cash crops as well.

The corn and hog raising States of the Middle West are buying more freely than the western sections of the Great Plains States where the wheat crop was largely a failure. There is not so much difference in industrial life, for virtually every phase of manufacturing life has more capacity than it can employ, if there be excepted some of the staple commodities used in building and construction.

This is about the fashion in which the situation will stack up for the next six months: for sudden changes in the business levels do not come so late in the year. Save in cotton fabrics, prices in most manufactured products are more likely to ease up than to show any tendency to advance for we are in that very normal state when there are more sellers than buyers.

The average man is well persuaded on that score and is not much impressed by pronouncements from high sources of coming prosperity because of increased demand. He is more of the belief that we are once more on the road to a better and juster relation of prices and of wages in the great divisions of economic and productive life, and is quite content that it should be so, as the best thing that can happen to us.

SPEED FIRST?

At Mitchel Field two airmen, Lieutenant Alford Williams and Lieutenant Harold Brow, engaged in a nip-and-tuck struggle for speed supremacy, which resulted in a maintained rate of one flier of nearly 267 miles an hour, and a burst of speed on the part of the other man which attained 274 miles an hour for one lap. The pair of contestants have traveled faster than any one ever moved through space before them, and the imagination is quickened as one envisages what this means for the future.

Draw a circle round Philadelphia with 274 miles as the radius, and it means Boston or Buffalo or the Ohio line or the North Carolina boundary in an hour at Brow's rate of speed. If "stunt" flying meant only the spectacular maneuvers the onlookers witnessed at Mitchel Field, a holiday of spills and thrills, of "ohs" and "ahs" and stiff necks the following day for jaded seekers after a dash sensation, one could let the nine days' wonder pass with little comment. But the many are concerned in what the few are doing because it means that in time everyday passenger traffic will reap the benefit of the phenomenal feats now accomplished.

In the war men were taught every sort of gyration, because when attacked they had to be able to control the plane at any rate in any position. In peace time the paramount interest is in the air mails and to handle an increasing passenger traffic. If the planes can travel high and fast their operation at lesser levels and at lower speed is obviously feasible. It is reassuring to realize that the hair-raising "stunts" have in view an ultimate objective far more useful than to supply a fleeting sensation to a throng that cares for little else.—Public Ledger.

KEEPING A DIARY.

Keeping a diary, like a good many other things, is a matter of habit. At first it seems immensely difficult. You forget and the days slip by unrecorded. You have nothing to set down, or you have too much. Many begin diaries but comparatively few persist with them.

Yet keeping a diary has great practical advantages. You do not appreciate how treacherous memory is till you compare it with actual written records. Some one says that you did or said so and so. You think that you did not. You turn to your diary, and there are facts. Presence, absence, illness, health, even happiness or unhappiness, are often substantiated by a reference to diaries.

And there is the fascination of living your life over again. When you are young and strength and everything is before you, you are apt to be careless, but if a friend is from employers and spent the day upon you the keeping of a diary and case of flappers setting a bad example to the young, there is a charm in going back to what you did early maturity, in those faded years fascination for those who write them, action for those who read them. Here is deception, no pretense, but the plain and as it was lived; and few books delight us so much as a diary, for it shows the common humanity in us all and the reactions of the mind. We can turn the leaves extra sweet milk and mix into it four tablespoons of flour; mix till smooth, add this thickening to the hot milk, stirring for a few seconds, then add one well-beaten egg which has been mixed with six tablespoons of granulated sugar. When thick, stir in one cup of shredded cocoanut and let cook a minute or two longer then remove from fire and add one teaspoon of vanilla. This filling is just the right amount to put between two cake layers.

Cocoanut Icing: (The following recipe makes just enough icing for the top of one cake.) Beat one egg white stiff in a medium sized bowl, ready to have hot sirup poured into it. Make the sirup as follows: Mix together two tablespoons of boiling water and four tablespoons of granulated sugar in a small saucepan and let them boil with but stirring till a little will "thread" from a spoon when it is held high in the air and dripped back into the saucepan (for the sake of the inexperienced cook I shall describe this "thread" as an almost invisible cobweb like ending of the drop of sirup which has just left the end of the spoon.) When this stage is reached take the saucepan off the fire at once and pour the hot sirup into the stiffly whipped egg-white in the bowl; beat the mixture for one full minute, with an egg-beater of the wheel type, then add one half cup of shredded cocoanut. Spread at once on the top layer of the cake.

In most families cocoanut layer cake is not served frequently because the cocoanut filling is more expensive than most other kinds. But every good housekeeper knows how to make this delicious cake, and at least for guest occasions it appears on the home table. For the sake of the inexperienced housekeeper I shall give this recipe in "just how" form:

A TWO-LAYER CAKE WITH COCOANUT FILLING AND FROSTING: Cream together one cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter; add the beaten yolks of two eggs and one cup of sweet milk. Mix together two and one-half cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt and add this dry mixture to the first mixture. Fold in the stiffly-whipped whites of the two eggs and flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla. Turn this batter into two buttered layer-cake pans and bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven.

LEARN MORE AND MORE

It is possible to learn something every day that will help you to increase the desire within you for more knowledge.

After we have seen the delicate formations of a flower under the microscope, we take an added interest in all flowers, and our imagination is set to work picturing new beauties and wonders in all the various flowers and formations in nature.

When you read one book by a writer you are stimulated to read other books by him, if that first one helps and interests you.

Somehow there seems to have been born in every healthy human being the hunger for something better, something that might increase the capacity for more knowledge.

The more you learn, the better you are fortified to meet every emergency in life. The knowledge that you gain today, from some out of the way source, may not really come into its own for years—and you never know the value of this accumulation until the right opportunity for its use arrives.

I read the other day that "the higher the level of innate capacity, the more is it improved by education." It is privilege to discover something about that "innate capacity" of yours and you may do so by learning more and more.

A real thrill comes to one when, on opening up a new line of reading or in some form of healthful entertainment, or in extended travel, new things are discovered and the mind is aroused to its fullest vigor.

You learn more and more as you look for more, as you listen more and as you add and build up from the knowledge which you already have.

Lest We Forget

November 11, 1918

Think back. Remember that memorable day--just five years ago--when the sun came over the horizon with an unexplainable new brightness? The heavens cleared and all the world breathed a heavy sigh of relief. The war was over. Humanity had been saved. A new future loomed before us.

The tension of many long days of uncertainty had been loosened. Folks gave vent to their feelings. Smiles shone through the tears. Joy knew no bounds. VICTORY! Victory--well earned, indeed--was ours.

So, today--the Fifth Anniversary of that never-to-be-forgotten occasion--let's you and me, Mr. Citizen, turn our thoughts to those who made possible that great Victory. Let's honor the lads who served with the colors--those lads who sacrificed all else so that we might enjoy Peace, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness to their fullest extent.

And when the eventful hour strikes--11 a. m.--let's doff our hats, face east and give a silent prayer for those of our defenders who so unselfishly laid their lives on the altar of Patriotism for Humanity's sake.

CENTRAL HIGH GRIDDERS STAGE COMEBACK AND DEFEAT GREENFIELD McCLAIN 13 TO 0

A football team that can come back after a defeat-laden and disheartening season and show the fighting spirit to win, has the qualities of championship in the making.

The Xenia Central High football team enrolled itself in this class of immortals at Greenfield Friday by overcoming the jinx that has followed the eleven through the season and defeating McClain High 13 to 0. Initially it was the first game in which the blue and white patimers scored a touchdown this season. A real fighting spirit enabled Coach Trigner's much abused athletes to gister the victory. Captain Don Miller and his mates battled like a ulard of tigers from the sound of e starting whistle and were still saulting Coach Hays' proteges with n and vigor when the game was ed.

Straight, old-fashioned, knock-around football, turned the trick for the enia eleven Friday after every own type of offensive play had been xperimented with during the season to put the eleven on a winning basis. The backfield men, rarely attempting runs and seldom resorting to the aerial game, pounded the guards and center and crashed off tackle for practically all the yards made. First down after down were piled up in successive order until Captain Don Fuller charged off tackle for the first touchdown in the second quarter.

Schwab, called back from end, for the try for point missed a drop kick

attempt. In the third period, Quarterback Holton unleashed another driving attack accompanied by sanguine results. Using his backfield men like sledgehammers he hammered the Greenfield line to the breaking point and ball toters sifted through these cracks for yards. Art Currie, playing at full back, smashed the line for the final touchdown and Schwab made the goal attempt good.

The successful effort at the forward passing game resulted in failure when Zell on the receiving end squeezed the pellet too hard and it popped out of his hand like a wet cake of soap. Fighting furiously on defense, the Greenfield aggregation never had a chance. The Xenia line charged well breaking up plays back of the line and talding all comes in every direction. The McClain athletes uncorked a clever passing attack at times fraught with results, but which was also solved before it became dangerous.

Fans who witnessed the game, were reluctant to pick stars among the Xenia team, for all the athletes played in such a dashing, sparkling style that they excelled any of their previous efforts on the gridiron this season. The success of the backfield combination probably insures its use against London High in the dedication game next week.

The lineup: Xenia--Spahr, ie, Scurry and Bryson lt; Jordan lg; Horner c; Botoff rg; Keller and Bryson, rt; Schwab re; Holton qb; Zell lb; Fuller (c), rbb; Currie, fb.

WINCHESTERS MAKE DISASTROUS DEBUT WITH BELLBROOK 5

Babb's Winchester basketball team made its seasonal debut at Bellbrook Friday night, losing to the Bellbrook Merchants by a count of 32 to 10.

The Xenia pastimers were handicapped by the small floor and low beams, but despite the inconvenient the game was fast and offered much interest to fans. Baynard, crack forward on the Xenia five, was the only Xenia athlete to register a field goal. Cramer and Wright, former Bellbrook High players, starred for the Merchants. The lineup and summary:

Winchester 10; Bellbrook 32.

CEDARVILLE LOSES SECOND ENCOUNTER TO ANTIOCH ELEVEN

Antioch College football team won its second game of the season from Cedarville College at Cedarville Friday afternoon, in one of the most interesting contests in the history of the annual meetings between these schools.

Cedarville, fighting hard to avenge the defeat suffered at the hands of Antioch by a big score in the opening game of the season, presented a defense that weakened sufficiently to permit but one touchdown, while showing an offense that several times threatened to score. The best offensive effort however, was a field goal that could not be repeated for a tie.

Tom Hollencamp, former Central High star, played halfback for Antioch and staged a whirlwind game, his plunging winning many yards for Coach Prugh's team. Larry Currie, another former Central High star, played equally able in the backfield of the Cedarville, and was rated as the mainspring of the Reformed Presbyterian's offense.

The game was scouted by Jerry L. Katherman, former Central High coach, who now coaches Capital College at Columbus, which team will be met by Cedarville soon at Columbus.

Grid-Dust

By Ray Higgins

High school football is the prep school of big university football. Few men who have not won their spurs in prep school succeed in the sport in college circles. Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame miracle man being a notable exception.

And each year the qualities of training in high school may more and more be measured by the subsequent success of the athlete in higher schools. The high school grid training may be under but it is the establishment of a foundation of future football heights.

Xenia Central high, through years of off and on teams, has contributed a liberal sprinkling of stars to the college game. The majority of these sparkled in the high school game here and readily adopted themselves to faster company. Many other high school stars would have been attended with equal success had they proceeded to college.

Among those who could be mentioned are Clarence Denner, who starred on the 1911 team and afterwards became an all-Ohio end at the University of Cincinnati, and "Bud" Snodgrass, who played end for Denison University until an injury and subsequent illness forced him to give up the pastime and other stars of prior history.

Among former Central High athletes now performing on College gridirons are Larry Currie, Walker Taylor and Lew McCoy, of Cedarville College, the first two having practically built up the team at Cedarville when that school introduced the grid sport a few years ago.

Tom Hollencamp is the bulwark of the backfield at Antioch College and "Red" Randall is sparkling in the backfield at Wilmington College. Bob Ballentyne is captain of the freshman team at Muskingum College this year. John Ballentyne, his brother, was a varsity player at that school until his graduation. Bob Moore starred in basketball at that school and is now a successful football coach. Paul Boxwell is a member of the freshman squad at Ohio State University and "Yank" Stephens was a freshman star at Miami and later played at Cedarville. Horace Smith is on the freshman squad at Swarthmore and Don Currie is a member of the Yearling squad at Ohio Wesleyan.
